Paper Title: Trafficking in Persons: Internal Trafficking of Children in Tanzania

Abstract: This paper examines the current state of internal child trafficking in mainland Tanzania through experiences, interviews, and research. The goal of our analysis is to show that despite public perception in Tanzania, human trafficking is a growing problem and current government initiatives to combat it are insufficient. Consequently, the Tanzanian government's pending new anti-trafficking legislation should include criminal sanctions punishing offenders as well as extra-legal efforts to combat the internal trafficking phenomenon.
