Northwestern Pritzker School of Law is proud to offer the Master of Science in Law degree (MSL), which provides focused training in intellectual property, regulatory analysis, and business/entrepreneurship for students with backgrounds in science, technology, engineering, math, and medicine. The MSL Program exposes STEM-trained students to the legal, business, regulatory, and policy issues they encounter in their careers.

Beginning in the Fall of 2018, the MSL Program will be offered as a part-time program in an online format. The online format includes a one-week residential requirement – called the Power Week – offered each year around the middle of May. There are two start dates each year for the online program: the fall start date is in August and the spring start date is in January. The online program is open to domestic and international students. International students will need a Visa for the one-week residential Power Week component of the program.

If you are interested in the residential program – either full-time or part-time – instead of the online program, you can request more information here.

To be eligible to apply for admission to the MSL Program at Northwestern Law, all applicants must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university or have completed the equivalent of six semesters from an accredited college or university and expect to graduate during the current academic year. Applicants must have a STEM background, either in the form of an educational degree or in substantial work experience in a STEM field.

The Admissions Committee will base its selection decisions on each applicant's "fit" with the MSL Program, looking at a number of factors, including the applicant's statement of interest, academic record, application information, letter(s) of recommendation, extracurricular activities, work experience, leadership ability, personal circumstances, aptitude for online study, and other information.
There is no fee to apply to the MSL Program. Although the Office of Admissions and Financial Aid seeks to keep applicants informed of their application status and the receipt of documents, it is each applicant’s responsibility to ensure that all parts of the application are received by the deadline; the Admissions Committee does not review incomplete applications.

Deadlines: For the Fall start of the 2018-2019 academic year, applications for the MSL online program are accepted during three rounds:

- First Round Priority Deadline: January 15
- First Round Final Deadline: January 31
- Second Round Deadline: April 1
- Third Round Deadline: June 1

*Note: January 15 is the priority deadline for Round 1 applications (and we encourage you to apply by January 15). Applications submitted by January 15 will receive an admissions decision by January 29. January 31 is the Round 1 final deadline. Applications submitted between January 15 and January 31 will receive an admissions decision by February 21.

For the Spring start of the 2018-2019 academic year, applications for the MSL online program are accepted during two rounds:

- First Round Deadline: August 15
- Second Round Deadline: October 1

Each admissions deadline will trigger review of all completed applications that have been submitted by that deadline. On occasion, the Admissions Committee may also review applications on a rolling basis between deadlines.

Notifications: Applicants will be informed of the Admissions Committee’s decisions within three weeks of the application deadlines.
Deposits: Students who are accepted into the program must secure their place in the class with a nonrefundable deposit of $750, which will ultimately be applied toward tuition and fees. Each application round will have a deposit deadline, which is typically within one month of the admissions decision.

Deferrals: Admitted students may request a deferral from the Admissions Committee by submitting a written statement explaining the reason for the request. Deferral decisions are in the sole discretion of the Admissions Committee; good cause must be shown before a deferral will be granted. If the Admissions Committee grants a deferral, the admitted student must enroll in one of following two start dates; the deferral expires after two start dates have passed, and then the student must re-apply to the program. To effectuate a deferral, the admitted student must submit a nonrefundable deposit of $750, which will ultimately be applied toward tuition and fees. An additional nonrefundable deposit of $750 (also applied to tuition and fees) will be required during the admissions cycle leading up to the term of the student’s actual enrollment in the MSL Program.

Tuition: Tuition information is available here. Applicants should expect a modest tuition increase each year.

The MSL Application Process
The MSL application for the online program requires a number of different parts, and these parts vary depending on whether the applicant is a domestic or international student. All applicants must submit the following items:

- Online Application
- Statement of Interest
- One Letter of Recommendation
- Current Resume or Curriculum Vitae
- Transcript from each university attended (undergraduate and graduate)

International applicants must submit:
• TOEFL/IELTS score or a TOEFL/IELTS waiver request

In addition to the above, applicants to the online program are required to submit an online interview (via the Kira platform).

Applicants are free to submit additional optional information, including:

• Unofficial standardized test score reports (GMAT, GRE, LSAT, or MCAT)
• Additional letters of recommendation

Statement of Interest

The Statement of Interest allows applicants to introduce themselves to the Admissions Committee. The statement should be 500-800 words and it should include information addressing all four of the following topics (five if the applicant does not have a degree in a STEM subject):

• Why you are interested in studying in the MSL Program.
• How your past academic and professional experiences prepare you to study in this particular program.
• How you hope to use the knowledge gained from the MSL Program to achieve your career goals.
• Your readiness to study in an online program, which requires strong self-motivation and time management skills.
• If you do not have a degree in a STEM field, please explain your STEM background and/or professional experience in a STEM field.

Letter of Recommendation

The recommender should be a previous or current professor or employer, or another person familiar with the applicant's qualifications for the MSL Program. (Note: Applicants should not use family members, friends, or peer-level colleagues as recommenders.) The process for obtaining a recommendation is as follows:
1. Identify a recommender;
2. Let the recommender know you would like them to serve as a recommender and obtain their agreement;
3. After steps #1 and 2 are completed, provide the recommender's contact information on the online application form.

Once the applicant adds the recommender’s contact information to the online form, the MSL application system will send an email to the recommender, along with a link and instructions for how to upload the recommendation to the applicant’s file. This email must go directly to the recommender; applicants should not send the email to themselves and then forward it to the recommender.

Resume/Curriculum Vitae

A description of prior employment and education, as well as achievements and publications, should be included in a one-two page resume/CV written in English.

Standardized Test Scores and Other Optional Information

While students are not required to take or submit a standardized test (apart from TOEFL or IELTS for international students; see below) to apply for the MSL Program, applicants are free to submit standardized test scores as part of their applications. Test scores – such as one of more of the GMAT, GRE, LSAT, and MCAT – often help to flesh out or fortify an application.

Transcripts

Applicants should upload an unofficial copy of all undergraduate and graduate transcripts to their application. In most cases, unofficial copies of transcripts will be sufficient for the Admissions Committee to review a file; in cases where the unofficial transcripts are not sufficient, the Admissions Committee will request official transcripts. Prior to enrollment, all students must arrange to submit official, sealed copies of undergraduate and graduate transcripts to the Admissions Office.

Domestic and international applicants who have received an undergraduate or graduate degree from an institution outside of the US (including its territories and Canada) must also provide an outside evaluation of their transcripts from the World Education Services (WES); the WES evaluation provides a course-by-course translation of courses, degree, and grades to U.S. equivalency. The WES evaluation must be received within one month of the applicable deposit deadline. We encourage applicants who have studied outside the U.S. to begin the WES process early, so as to expedite the application/admissions/enrollment process. For more information, visit www.wes.org; check the “Required Documents” information specific to your country of study.

English Language Proficiency

Students in the MSL Program must have a high level of English language aptitude; the Admissions Committee relies on a test of English proficiency for students who are not native speakers of English. International applicants to the program who do not have English as their native language are required to submit an official TOEFL or IELTS test score by the application deadline; the minimum acceptable TOEFL score is 100 and the minimum IELTS score is 7.5.

The English proficiency examination should be taken by February 15, 2018. Applicants should request to have an official copy of their scores sent by ETS (TOEFL) or IELTS directly to the Northwestern Law Admissions Office – the Law School’s code is 1565. The Law School will accept scores up to two years after the test date. For further information about the TOEFL examination, contact the Educational Testing Service.

Applicants who do not receive the minimum score on the English language proficiency test may request an evaluative interview from the Admissions Committee. Interviews are allowed at the discretion of the Admissions Committee in cases where the test score may not be indicative of the applicant's ability.

The English language proficiency requirement may be waived if (1) the applicant has completed an undergraduate or graduate degree at an institution where the language of instruction is English or (2) in exceptional circumstances, such as previous exposure to English language, and after an evaluative interview. To apply for a waiver of the English proficiency examination requirement, applicants should submit the online request form. The Admissions Committee will grant waivers on a case-by-case basis, at its sole discretion.
Visa Requirements

Applicants who require a visa (F-1 or J-1) to study in the United States during the Power Week for online students may request a certificate of eligibility from Northwestern University. To qualify for the I-20 or DS-2019, international students must be admitted to the MSL Program and must demonstrate their ability to fund their studies at the Law School. For additional information about visa options and federal regulations, please contact the International Office at Northwestern University.

Loans

Many part-time MSL students – both online and residential students – can qualify for student loans. U.S. citizens and permanent residents are generally eligible for Federal student loans.

U.S. citizens and permanent residents who wish to apply for a Federal student loan should submit the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) to determine eligibility. The FAFSA form is available online. Individuals may also need to submit a signed copy of their 2016 Federal tax return and W-2s to Northwestern University. The Financial Aid Office will contact individuals who must submit these forms.

Applicants who are not eligible for Federal student loans may qualify for a university-administered or other private loan programs. Loans for international students require a credit-worthy U.S. citizen/permanent resident co-signer. If a U.S. co-signer is not possible, applicants should investigate loan opportunities in their home countries.

Instructions for completing the financial aid application will be provided via email to admitted students after their admissions decisions are made.

Bar Examination

The MSL degree does not qualify its graduates to take a bar examination or to practice law.
