

This week would not have been possible without the generous contribution of the Federalist Society for Law and Public Policy Studies.

The Northwestern University School of Law Federalist Society is a non-partisan student organization including conservatives, libertarians, and others interested in the current state of the legal order. It is founded on the principles that the state exists to preserve freedom, that the separation of governmental powers is central to our Constitution, and that it is emphatically the province and duty of the judiciary to say what the law is, not what it should be.
