Professional Experience

1991-2011 Engaged in civil and criminal litigation in New York, Arizona, Washington, and Texas, including with Owen & Rountree, L.L.P., the Texas Resource Center, and Sidley & Austin.

Predominant focus on representing clients facing the death penalty at trial, on appeal, and in state and federal post-conviction. Investigated legal claims, examined witnesses in evidentiary hearings, drafted pleadings and appellate briefs in state and federal court, and presented oral argument in trial and appellate court.

Active in a range of incarceration issues: member of working group on Texas death row mental health care; consulted with the Texas Youth Commission's independent ombudsman on health care issues; took part in health services audit of youth detention facility for the Annie E. Casey Foundation's Harris County Juvenile Detention Alternatives Initiative; and served on the final plaintiffs' counsel team for the Ruiz prison conditions lawsuit addressing segregation of prisoners with mental illness, prisoner sexual assault, and staff uses of force.

2001-2004 American Civil Liberties Union of Texas

Founded and directed pro bono the Prison and Jail Accountability Project of the ACLU of Texas. Through public education, legislative work, and litigation, led efforts to reduce sexual assault in prison, improve the quality of prisoners' health care, and challenge privatization of correctional facilities.
